

Special Breakfast Briefing

TRENDS AND CHANGES IN BUSINESS IMMIGRATION LAWS

The national debate over immigration policy is in the news – and in the streets – on a daily basis. What does all this mean for businesses that regularly employ foreign nationals in the US? In this special breakfast briefing, EBG's business immigration experts will review the changes you can expect in immigration laws and enforcement policies and give you practical advice on how you can reduce your immigration-related headaches and expenses. Our topics will include:

- Proposed restrictions on L-1 visas for senior managers and persons with specialized knowledge or skills.
- What the immigration reform debate may mean for employers of foreign nationals.
- Increased enforcement activity against employers for immigration violations.
- Possible increase in civil and criminal penalties for employment-related immigration violations. Will the US Supreme Court rule that RICO applies to immigration violations?
- The new Labor Certification (PERM) process, one year later. What's working, what's not. Tips for successfully navigating the certification maze.
- Foreign national employees and technology export compliance. How to avoid unintentional violations.
