EBG's excellent reputation as a national health care-focused law firm is what drew me to the Firm. Joining EBG has been a great opportunity for me to offer more depth and breadth of health care regulatory experience to my clients.

When looking to take my practice to the next level, EBG was definitely the right choice. The depth of labor expertise, core industry focus and client-centric entrepreneurialism at EBG enabled me to exponentially expand my practice in a very short time.

"The opportunities for working with others and cross-selling was the reason I came to EBG, and so far these opportunities have been very "real" and have resulted in new business from existing clients and also in new clients – all of which I would not have had at my prior large regional firm."

DISCOVER YOUR GROWTH POTENTIAL

Moving your practice can be a daunting prospect: more than one-third of lateral hires leave their new firms within five years of joining. You want the strongest platform and the best opportunities to grow your practice, but finding the right firm can be a huge challenge, and the professional risks are real.

The "right" firm means one that is respected in the legal industry and has business development support, access to firm leadership, and a culture that values cross-selling, teamwork, and creativity. Most of all, it means a firm that takes its lateral hiring seriously and really commits to making the new relationship work.
