

Contemporary Issues in Employee Benefits & Compensation in a Recovering Economy

CEFS Speakers Series

The United States has undergone substantial change in the last three years. We have been through a financial crisis from which new legislation regarding executive pay and financial reform has been introduced. In 2010, we passed landmark healthcare reform. As a result, we have seen an evolution in three major areas of employee benefits: 401k plans, employer group health plans and equity programs.

Join us on June 16th for a webinar hosted by guest speaker Michelle Capezza, member of the Employee Benefits Practice at Epstein Becker Green.

Explore questions like:

- What legislation has recently impacted employee benefits?
- What challenges do these changes present?
- How should companies respond?

*Michelle Capezza is a Member of Epstein Becker Green in the Employee Benefits Practice in the Firm's New York office. Ms. Capezza practices law in the areas of ERISA, employee benefits and executive compensation and has more than thirteen years of experience representing a range of clients, from Fortune 500 companies to medium-sized businesses and individual executives in these matters.
