As the city with the second-largest population in the United States, Los Angeles serves as the entertainment capital of the world. It is also a metropolitan area with wide-ranging industries.

Clients in communications and entertainment, energy, financial services, health care, high technology, hospitality, life sciences, manufacturing, media (traditional and emerging), and pharmaceuticals turn to our Los Angeles attorneys for counsel and representation across our core practices.

Many of the attorneys in our Los Angeles office are involved with community service organizations. Our Los Angeles attorneys are also active participants in business, legal, and nonprofit associations, including the Association of Business Trial Lawyers, the Beverly Hills Bar Association, the Los Angeles County Bar Association, and the Media Law Resource Center, among others.
