

Impact: From Roe to Dobbs 50-State Survey

In the wake of the overturning of Roe v. Wade, Epstein Becker Green (EBG) continues to be at the forefront in helping clients assess the myriad issues arising from the Dobbs decision. To support our approach to strategic management of the effects these novel issues will have on businesses, employees, patients, products, and/or services, EBG has developed a robust 50-state survey that cites and summarizes current laws related to abortion access. We are tracking key developments to keep our clients apprised of further potential changes that may affect them. Subscribers to this 50-state survey will receive a comprehensive tool to help them better understand the potential effects of these widely varying laws and develop operational strategies and best practices, wherever in the nation they may be.

WHAT'S IN THE SURVEY?

- A comprehensive list of laws that regulate, prohibit or protect abortion
- An explanation of what changed when Roe v. Wade was overturned
- Detailed summaries of restrictions and/or protections in each state, including:
 - » How each state determines when pregnancy begins in the context of abortion
 - » Information about who is authorized to perform abortions, as well as where and under what circumstances
 - » Whether there are exceptions for prohibitions (i.e., ectopic pregnancies, rape/incest, health/life of patient, etc.)
 - » Whether the state requires informed consent, counseling, waiting periods, and/or third-party notification
 - » Rules regarding insurance coverage and public funding
- Notes on related Executive Orders and pending litigation

FUTURE UPDATES

- The survey will be updated on a timely basis with updates in 2022 occurring monthly and at least quarterly thereafter.
- Our dedicated team of legal researchers is tracking key legislative and regulatory updates in every state plus the District of Columbia, including a focus on attempts at enforcement across state lines.
- We are also monitoring key enforcement activity and litigation in state and federal courts to stay ahead of further developments.
