Whether assisting clients with transactional due diligence or representing them in civil litigation, regulatory proceedings, or criminal government investigations, Zachary "Zach" Taylor is committed to helping his clients reach their goals. Zach represents a diverse group of health care entities, including physician practices, health systems, hospitals, dietary supplement companies, and clinical laboratories. He also helps clients navigate state and federal regulatory issues, including the Anti-Kickback Statute and licensure requirements.

Before joining Epstein Becker Green, Zach was the only joint, non-medical staff member concurrently employed at two unaffiliated hospitals in central New Jersey. In that role, he built a collaborative of over 30 organizations that developed strategic plans to guide community benefit efforts, resulting in two Community Outreach Awards from the New Jersey Hospital Association's Health Research and Educational Trust of New Jersey.

Zach is a frequent contributor to Bloomberg Health Law & Business News and a member of Bloomberg Law's Health Care Transaction Editorial Committee.

Zach obtained his J.D., magna cum laude with a concentration in Health Law, from Seton Hall University School of Law, where he also earned a Health Care Compliance Certification and received the school's Excellence in Health Law Award.
